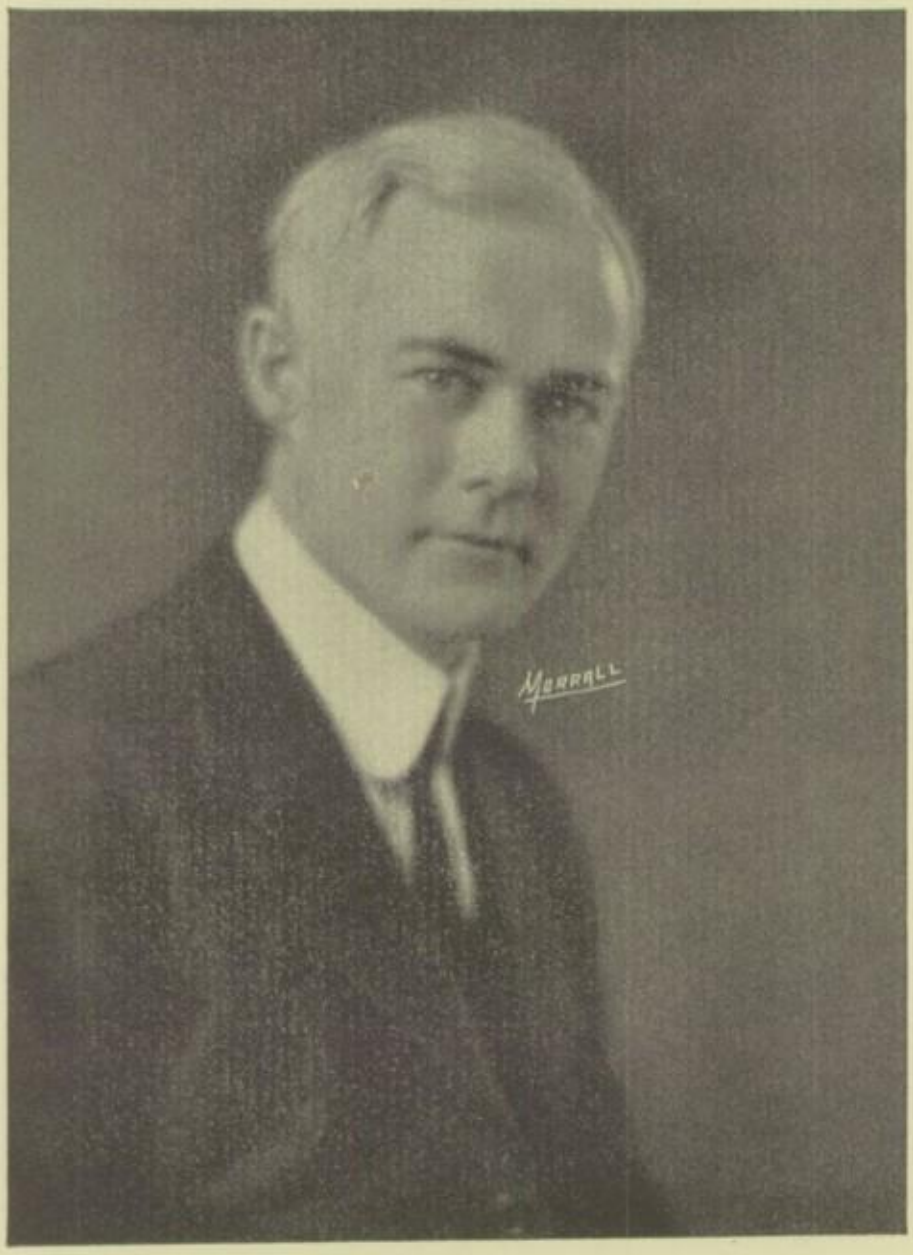
FOREWORD

To set forth the spirit of those high-minded immigrants who cross the seas to make America their home, to recall their bravery, courage, and faith in the face of all obstacles presented by settling in a new land, and to form a tangible background of memories of four happily-spent years, we build this book.



DEDICATION

To Dr. Mason De Witt Gray, whose sympathetic insight into every-day problems of teaching endear us to him, whose fine contributions to the study of Latin, his life-work, were ended by his recent death, whose generous giving of himself and his time have benefited both his pupils and his colleagues—we dedicate this book.

Alma Mater

Sweet be thy memory, High School of ours;
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers;
Hearts that have loved thee have won in life's fight,
Names that we honor thy standards hold bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing,
May all thy future years new honors bring;
May friends thy banner raise, thy foes grow less;
All love and praise to our old E. H. S.

SENIORS

The Melting Pot

Some will write songs for man.
Their heritage is the stars.
Some will break ground for bread.
Their heritage is the earth.
Some will love rain at night.
They have no heritage.
Proudly they hold their heads.
They are America.

Class Advisers

Over the course of their four years at East High the Class of January '29 has travelled a pleasant and easy path, skillfully piloted by experienced and capable advisers.

Fate designated Arnold B. Swift the masculine helmsman of the class, from their entrance into the school until their departure, in which position he has been a friendly and helpful companion, ready to encourage, reprimand or suggest. For two and one-half years Katharine A. Barber, girls' adviser, expended her efforts in behalf of the girls of the class in such a way that she won their affection completely and succeeded in producing a sociable and co-operative atmosphere.

One of the Fate sisters decided to break the thread of this regular life, and thus was Miss Barber transferred to the advisership of the following class. Edith Stone entered upon her duties as succeeding adviser with zeal and enthusiasm which were indispensable qualities in the handling of individuals and affairs of the class.

To these advisers we owe our appreciation for having guided us faithfully and well through high school, resulting in the enjoyable and profitable outcome of each social and business enterprise.

Pentateuch of the Class of January 1929

GENESIS

On one frosty January afternoon in 1925 old East High School opened its eyes somewhat apprehensively as it beheld the clan which it was to harbor for the next four years. Rather a tough load of ingredients for any Melting Pot, even if it had been going for almost a quarter of a century.

Quite an unnatural existence this new group led: While the rest of the school labored over their lessons in the morning these youngsters slept cozily at home and then gulped down an eleven o'clock dinner to scurry off to school in time for their first class. While the sophisticated inhabitants of this institution sported outdoors in the afternoon, these same hobble-de-hoys pored over their little tomes and imbibed the wisdom of the ages. Then fate exiled us to that venerable hot-house of learning, the University Annex.

There, like the Pharaohs of old, "Ike" Potter laid down the law to us in his powerful tones. For the first few mornings some of our belated comrades, drowsy because of the interruption in their sleep, wandered into the building next door, the Fifth Precinct Police Station. But, on account of the similarity in atmosphere, environment, and procedure of the two institutions, it was long before they discovered their error, if so indeed it may be called. While interred at the Annex, we organized our class, electing Bob Fay as our first president. During the same interval we also held our first party, a Hallowe'en affair at which, giggling shyly, we played forfeit and several other adolescent parlor games in our clammy basement.

EXODUS

In September, 1926, as dubiously sophisticated Sophomore finals, we migrated to the promised land, the main building,—this time leading what was called a normal life.

Imagine our feeling when we discovered that for our Moses, who should guide us and advise us, we had A. B. Swift, the most notorious teacher in the school. The blow of this sudden calamity was softened when we learned that we were to have as co-adviser, the convivial Katharine A. Barber.

LEVITICUS

Constancy being the virtue of our class, we again elected the stalwart Bob Fay president for our Junior year. Our other chosen servants were Gerald Perlman, vice-president; Henry Newman, treasurer; and Bessie Martens, secretary.

NUMBERS

At our first real party, the Junior Jap Jig, we began to realize that we were quite a gang, there being about a hundred and fifty of us. Not hailing from the Bonny Braes and Doons we can afford to laugh at our own expense: if wall-flowers really decorate a room, the girls' gym on that night was highly ornamented. Boys were boys and the girls were disgusted.

DEUTERONOMY

Seniors! The zenith of school existence. The result of faithful labors. To begin the year right we re-elected Bob Fay, Henry Newman, and Bessie Martens, and selected Percy Brooks for the vice-presidency. With the new year came Mrs. Stone to advise us and help us in place of Miss Barber, whose services were transferred to our understudies, the June Class.

As nonchalantly as one might go into hysterics we went into histrionics and produced "The Charm School" amidst the thundering plaudits of the multitude. Our dance, The Eskimo Hop, was a decided improvement over our previous efforts (partly because it was decided beforehand to hold dance practice sessions). The summer vacation acted as the lull before the final storm.

In September we came back to listen with a certain complacent pride and esoteric pleasure to our Principal Wilcox call us the "ranking Senior Class" before all the pupils in assembly.

With "The Rear Car" as a vehicle for our actors, we offered mysterious murders on moving trains, blinking lights, and screams innumerable, all for fifty cents. Pooling our efforts with those of the Class of June '29, we held the first combined Senior party in the history of the school. And such a highly successful experiment did it prove to be that it promises to establish a precedent.

After discussions, wranglings, and meetings at which everything from clown suits to Roman togas were suggested for Senior day costumes, we went Bolshevistic and bought flaming red sweaters and blue nether garments. And oh! who will ever forget that bouncing ride out to the inn near Scottsville. And the Scotch bus drivers who, avowedly to save money on electricity, turned the lights out in the cars. Then the supper: a merry tussle with more or less mature poultry. Dancing to our fill with our favorite orchestra playing.

Came the night of nights. Graduation. It was a bit hard to keep from fidgeting up there on the assembly platform under the admiring gazes of so many proud parents. Everything flowed along smoothly, undisturbed except by a certain chimerical abortion, supposedly in literary form, concerned with medieval Frankfort and written by a conspicuously erudite member of our class. Amen.

End of Old Testament.

Mother America

America, lover of races,
Mother of many-tongued peoples,
You have opened your arms to the richness
Of color and music and laughter,
Welcomed the pilgrim and wanderer,
Poet with singing rhyme,
Worker with pick and shovel,
Mother with crying child.

Refining the good of the Old World,
Weld us courageous Americans.
Gird us with armor of honor,
Set us marching with banners of truth.

Domenic De Francesco

Class Advisers

As our life in the melting pot of East High School draws to a close, we realize how skillfully Miss Katharine Barber and Mr. Domenic De Francesco enabled the ingredients to harmonize successfully.

To them, ever helpful, we owe many happy memories, many remembrances of gay, delightful times which they made possible. Years hence we shall treasure their sincerity, sympathy, and wise guidance even more than we do now—for the value of any good action increases with age.

Domenic De Francesco, familiarly Mr. De Fran, generously giving to us valuable time and thought, has made himself an indispensable part of the class. Now, as we leave the halls of East High, teeming with fleeting, gypsy, youthful memories, we express our appreciation and gratitude to him for his magnanimity and well-given aid.

The charming personality of Katharine Barber endears us to her. Her friendly suggestions and loyal, unfailing interest in the class have made the sometimes rusty and creaking machinery of class-organization function smoothly and well. We need scarcely say that we offer to Miss Barber our whole-hearted thanks.

Not transient is our store of impressions of our class advisers. Truly, they will remain long with us as our personal friends, and beloved teachers.

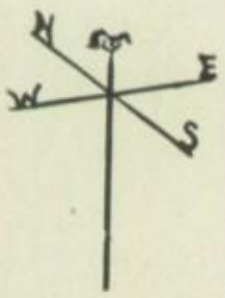
History of the Class of June '29



With cordial welcome, the Annexes and the Junior High Schools engulfed us during our first and second years.

Although occasional spurts of activity and spirit marked our class as an extra-ordinary one, witness the success of our second-year production "Lelawala", and the University Annex

We did not operate as a class until in our Peppy Jr. & Sr. year we came to the June '29 girls won the girls' at our Big parties, "The Rainbow Parade" and "The Rainbow Shower," we had dancing and, as all-round social times, they were equal to none.

Class Will

Seein' as we're expected to give a Class Will, we take the honor of presenting Willie in person, the most extolled of all humans, the most benevolent benefactor of the age, the sole support upon which the insipid Frosh, the aspiring Sophs, the inadequately learned Juniors and the unsurpassable Seniors will continue to subsist.

Willie: Hello, kids! Here's the whole business in a nut shell:

To all Pupils of East High we leave:

1. Mr. Wilcox, who is especially skilled in writing excuses and who has an unusual facility in smoothing over uncertain situations.
2. A staff of teachers, not decreased by any of our serious misdemeanors, who are patient and eager in the instruction of their classes.

To future ORIENT staffs:

1. One-twentieth interest in the CLARION-ORIENT office, Room 305; ten-twentieths of which belongs to the CLARION; five-twentieths to waste paper and its containers; three-twentieths to imposing, atmosphere-creating instruments; and the remaining twentieth to casual passersby.
2. One typewriter, including all keys and a ribbon. Another typewriter without a ribbon, a stuttering space bar, no bell, and minus a few dozen screws and other appendages.
3. A very comprehensive morgue, including the cuts of the most important people in existence; namely, the members of the January and June, 1929, classes.

To every teacher and every pupil:

1, One odiferous lunch room.
2. A social laboratory.
3. One smilingly dutiful, red-headed cop.
4. Summer's inspiration, fire drills.
   And many other cherished things and nice teachers.

Yours truly,

WILLIE, THE CLASS WILL.

ACTIVITIES

House of Delegates

Enterprising pupils, who have for several years given voice to their opinions concerning the student government body through the CLARION, have brought about the initiation of a new government, based upon home room representation.

Large increases in the school's population have made the original class-unit form very inadequate.

Twenty-five years ago the Executive Council, consisting of representatives from four small classes, functioned admirably well. At present the eight large classes, scattered in various home rooms, cannot be used as satisfactory mediums of representation. Thus the home room unit has evolved.

The present government, the House of Delegates, now in the second term of its life, is composed of one delegate and one alternate from each home room. Ideas advanced by members at Delegate meetings are examined and talked over, referred to the home rooms for discussion and approval or disapproval, and the comments reported at the following meeting of the House.

With the passing of the old students' association and the arrival of the new plan have gone the managing of many student functions by pupils into the hands of the faculty. This does not curtail the numerous activities of the House of Delegates, for many matters such as plans for our libraries, ideas for entertainments, schemes for welcoming new groups and individuals to the school, are brought before the public eye and school sentiment is solicited.

Girls' Athletic Association

The initial result secured through the newly formed House of Delegates is the Girls' Athletic Association, organized for the purpose of stimulating a heartier and more cooperative spirit in girls' athletics. Miss Lillian Wangman and Miss Effie Wetherell, girls' gym instructors, have aided the girls in the organization of the club and have been the impetus for the rapid growth of membership.

To be eligible for membership in the association, girls must participate in at least one after-school sport activity. All girls' sports—basketball, tennis, swimming, hockey, soccer, hiking, and baseball—are furthered through this society.

The first group of officers elected by the club are:

Bertine Hofmeister	President
Annie Myhill	Vice-President
Muriel Bark	Secretary

Determined to build a book that would be different, the editors of the ORIENT adopted a theme for the annual which they judged particularly appropriate. With enthusiasm and the will-to-do the editorial staff took up its task of writing the year-book and thoroughly enjoyed its work, especially the originating of grinds for their classmates.

The business staff faced the seemingly hopeless indifference of hard-faced business men in attempting to get ads. Roy E. Davey, financial adviser of the ORIENT, with characteristic vigor instilled hope into his co-workers.

The year-book has been written without faculty supervision, as usual, except for the customary perusal by the class advisers.

Clarion

This year the CLARION has been published without the customary support of a CLARION class, with its staff lacking the previous training in news writing that other CLARIONS have had. Instead, members received their training in journalism in actual reporting for the paper with occasional counsel from Donovan M. Jenkins, adviser. This abandonment of a CLARION class is a result of congested conditions in the school.

The CLARION has during the term served not only as a news and literary sheet, but also as the direct voice of the pupils. In the early part of the semester the CLARION originated a cheer contest which proved successful, if it is to be judged by the interest it aroused and results it obtained.

Commendation is due the business staff under the leadership of Roy E. Davey for the unprecedented sales profits it has amassed.

Donovan M. Jenkins

Roy E. Davey

During his two years of acquaintance with East High School and of adviserships to the CLARION, Donovan M. Jenkins has adapted himself admirably to his task with the ease and assurance of an old hand. Acting upon the principle that experience is the best teacher, Mr. Jenkins has allowed the present staff to write its paper unassisted. Between issues he gave valuable constructive criticism at meetings of the editorial staff.

Roy E. Davey proved himself an indispensable cog in the machinery of both East High publications. As adviser to the CLARION Mr. Davey ever inspired the business staff with enthusiasm. As guardian of the ORIENT funds, Mr. Davey hovered over the treasury with a skilled and watchful eye. Furthermore he worked energetically to procure those elusive ads which are so difficult to obtain. So skillfully did he manipulate his allotted funds that both publications are successful financially.

Music

Rarely does a school enter into the making and enjoyment of music with such zest and enthusiasm or on such a large scale as did East High during the past year. Guided by three men of unusual ability and talent, pupils have worked industriously and achieved really praise-worthy results.

We have had the orchestra with its symphonies, the opera with its arias, and the vocal quartet with its tuneful croonings. We have been stirred by the band with its marches, the á Capella choir with its choruses, and the woodwind quintet with its unique tone color. The Glee Club with its melodious songs, the string quartet with its rich chamber music, and the soloists with their brilliant pieces and concertos—all these have delighted us by broadening and lending color to our school life.

An annex orchestra was formed to accommodate some of the sixty pupils who applied for admission to the orchestra—a number larger than the entire personnel not so many years ago. The remarkable growth and development of the band and orchestra under the skillful leadership of Karl Van Hoesen is evinced in still another way. For the first time in recent years both organizations have given separate formal evening concerts in the school auditorium with unusual success.

By its meritorious performances our Glee Club carried the name of the school with honor to various parts of the city. In addition to presenting its annual concert, it represented East High at the Community Festival, the Eastman School, and other institutions. In filling the place of Howard Hinga, who is now supervisor of music in the public schools of the city, Marlowe G. Smith even surpassed the high standard for work which he set at the annex last year. The picture of him in the assembly leading us as we sing "Sweet be thy memory . . .," will long remain with us.

Although new to East High at the beginning of the year, Frederick W. Schweppe has made himself a welcome and valuable addition. Under his direction the University Annex Glee Clubs produced Robert Planquette's opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," quite an ambitious undertaking for any group of school singers.

Happily the pleasure derived from music has not been confined to those who make it. Performances have been well attended and the school has indicated its appreciation.

Drama

"The play's the thing," wrote Shakespeare years ago. Although customs change with the years, at heart men remain essentially the same. In the seventeenth century, and in the twentieth, and during the centuries between and before, men went to plays to relax their tired minds and to rest their weary bodies.

Plays do not benefit the audience alone. During the weeks of rehearsing and preparation the actors learn to express themselves clearly and forcefully. Their individuality and personality are developed, and they gain self-confidence and poise.

If any player possesses a latent ability for acting, Miss Katherine Burns, the director of dramatics in East High School, discovers this ability and gives it a chance to develop. After weeks of hard work, with the indispensable aid and the invaluable advice of Miss Burns, the senior class is able to present a play worthy of many a professional producer.

Under the direction of Miss Burns the Class of January, 1929, presented "The Charm School," which was received with joyful acclamation, and later followed with "The Rear Car," a mystery play, even more successful. The Class of June, 1929, enacted two plays in their last term, an unprecedented occurrence in the annals of East High School. When they found that the comedy which they were rehearsing in their senior term year had not yet been released for amateur production, it was too late in the term to produce another play. Their first dramatic attempt, a mystery comedy entitled, "The Hidden Guest," met with an enthusiastic reception. Their second play, "The County Chairman," was also an achievement worthy of notice.

Coach "Pete" McKay turned out another fighting team this season. The eleven did not succeed in lifting the Interscholastic League title, but were in the fight throughout. East finished third, losing only to West and Tech.

At the start of the season, McKay had little material to choose from. Veterans were Tracy Smith, Tom Flood, Edwin Hayes, Herb Yackel, Bob Gibson, and Frank Gervasi. "Pete" succeeded in developing as regular men Tarszowitz and Mutch of the Frosh team, and Michlin, Junior High player.

The Orientals shaped up as one of the strongest defensive teams in the loop but were weak on the forward line, lacking the star work of Mink at goal-guard. Eli had never played soccer before this season, but his coolness under fire acquired in basketball stood him in good stead. The rushing play of Smith and Tarszowitz at fullback was a big factor in keeping the opposing scores down.

But few members of this season's team will be back next year, and McKay will have to fall back on this year's strong reserve team material. The Orientals may come through with another championship, however, as Coach McKay is famous for uncovering promising ability.

Reserve Soccer

Although the reserves did not do so well from the record-book point of view, they showed the traditional East High fighting spirit and sportsmanship in all their games. Members of the scrub squad who will be back next year should form the basis of a strong Oriental first team.

Wrestling Team

Wrestling received fresh impetus in the high schools this year. Although there was no loop last year, Coach "Pete" McKay had boys working out all season, and had an experienced squad on hand this year.

The East matsmen breezed through more than half of their schedule with wins, but tough breaks near the end caused them to end up tied for second place with West. Tech occupied the top rung.

Oriental grapplers showed their worth when they copped three of nine championships in the Interscholastic Individual Wrestling Tournament. Tech men won four titles; Charlotte and West, each one. East matmen crowned champions in their respective classes are: Morris Shapiro, scrappy 105-pounder; Anthony Mitrano, 147-pounder; and Norman Millard of the 175-pound division.

Coach Doc Fowle turned out another one of his strong teams this year. The Oriental hoopsters lost but one game in 21 starts—and that was in the first round of State Scholastic Tournament at Syracuse. Fosdick-Masten of Buffalo, East's conquerors, 26 to 24, in last year's second-round state tourney battle, again proved the Oriental's Waterloo, taking a thrilling game, 38 to 32.

In the opinion of newspaper men and other reliable persons who witnessed the game, East was the best of the eight teams in the tourney. The Orientals, however, encountered a wierd exhibition of shooting in the second quarter on the part of the Bison team, which completely mastered them. In that strange period every shot Buffalo tried—it mattered not from how far out or from what angle—everything zipped through the meshes. East came back strong in the second half, but with most of its star men out of the game, could not overcome Fosdick-Masten's overpowering lead.

Although East went through only one round of the tournament, two men received recognition on the all-state team selections. Ray Shutrum was chosen all-state center and Mink was given berth on the second team. It is almost certain that if the Orientals had gone further in the tourney, others would have received places on the mythical teams.

ORIENT

Frank Gervasi

Gervasi

Captain Frank Gervasi

Although Gervasi was handicapped by the responsibility of running the team, the colorful star enjoyed his biggest year on the court. His passing and wonderful dribbling game were important factors in East's victories.

Shutrum

Ray Shutrum, Center

Under the careful guidance of Coach Fowle, Shutrum has developed into a real basketball star. He was selected as all-state center, and led the scorers in this city. Ray was on the scoring end of most of East's plays. Ray's height, speed, and weight made him eminently fitted for his scoring role.

Mink

Eli Mink, Guard

Because of his uncanny basketball brains, Mink ranks among East's great athletes. His passwork and skillful maneuvering on the court was a revelation to watch. Time and again he brought the crowds to their feet with some clever play in which he caught the opponents napping.

Cohn

Jerry Cohn, Forward

Ineligible during the first part of the season, Jerry came back to the team, aiding materially in East's triumphs. He scored many points with his favorite tap-in play.

Louis Caparco, Forward

This flashy forward was the spark-plug in the Oriental offense. Often one of his "pop" shots helped out in a tight place. He also played well in the passing.

At the time of writing, the Interscholastic Baseball League has not yet started Indications are, however, that East will have a cracker-jack team. An all-veteran infield that gives promise of being the strongest in the league, a good outfield and an excellent battery make the Orientals favorites to win the title.

BEING THE ONE AND ONLY HISTORY OF JOE GRUNK, ACCEPT NO IMITATIONS.

FRESHMAN YEAR

Vocabulary:

a a time-honored, venerable, and convenient expression which originated in ancient times when desperate blockhead schoolboys hit upon the expedient of stalling the impending wrath of exasperated instructors by using this simple sound.

came akin to Latin cum. For further details consult Webster's International Dictionary.

Portfolio—derived from Babylonian port—meaning harbor or anchoring place; plus folio—a perverted form of folly, meaning absurdity. Meaning:—an anchoring place for idiosyncrasies.

I.

1. Joe Grunk came to East High School. 2. Joe Grunk was a fresh-man at East High School. 3. Joe Grunk car-ried a portfolio at East High School. 4. Why did the boys and girls laugh at Joe?

SOPHOMORE YEAR

Vocabulary:

there—a rather facetious expression whose meaning evolved in an exceedingly curious fashion. It is derived from the Scandinavian t, a simplified form of tsczufph, denoting negation, and Mexican here meaning hither.

It was first used in 1000 B.C., when an inhabitant of Iceland was tried for murder at the scene of the crime, and, attempting to establish an alibi, wittily stated that at the time of the killing he was "tsczufphhere." According to tradition, the judge was so overwhelmed by the defendant's brilliance that he set him free instantaneously.

committee—a historically interesting word which originated in Scotland. It is made up of com, an abbreviated form of come, plus mit, a Germanic expression meaning with, plus tee, a distorted form of tea, a beverage. (Tea was changed to tee on general principles of beauty of form and symmetry. This quaint expression is a sign of the time when groups of people in Scotland met at each other's homes, and to insure themselves against starvation, "came with tea" or refreshments.

II.

Joe Grunk went to a class party at East High School and there met Ashea Sizzle. He couldn't meet anyone else because no one came except the janitor and the committee, Joe Grunk, and Ashea Sizzle. Why didn't anyone else come? Before the party ended, Ashea Sizzle slapped Joe Grunk's face. What do you suppose made her do that?

Orient Junior

JUNIOR YEAR

Vocabulary:

gentleman—probably derived from United States gent, which is probably slang for a male, plus le, which probably has no significance whatever and was probably added for euphony, plus man which probably means a human being of masculine gender. This appellation is probably applied to male human beings of the masculine gender, although it probably may mean something else.

woman—a word coined by one of the foremost scientists of our day. It is composed of wo—a shortened form of woe which was used instead of woeful, because of its brevity, plus man, a human being of the masculine gender. To fully explain the significance of the word woman, we must resort to Einstein's famous theory of relativity which states that female creatures, being much more serious than the male, are but woeful men.

III.

And now our hero is in his Junior year at East High School. (You will doubtless remember, gentle reader, that the aforementioned gentleman is yclept Joe Grunk.) Circumstances are slightly altered. Ashea Sizzle no longer slaps Joe Grunk's face since she realizes that it would be dangerous for her arm muscles to slap him every time he misbehaved. Women are subtle creatures. All the girls of Grunk's acquaintance are wild with love for him. It has become a familiar sight in East High's classic halls to see a bevy of beautiful maidens gazing open-mouthed at Grunk, humbly smoothing his brick-red hair, and enraptured, entreat him to please do that Charleston step again, for Grunk's legs are unusually adapted to modern steps. Were a line drawn connecting the point of tangency of his knees with the point of tangency of his ankles, the resulting line would be the diameter of a circle of which each leg would form a half. (Proof unnecessary since this conclusion is indisputably evident.)

SENIOR YEAR

Vocabulary: The writer deems it a disparaging insinuation to the intelligence of omniscient Seniors to assume that explanation of any terms is necessary or desirable? Hence vocabulary has been omitted.

IV.

During his final year, Joe Grunk became a celebrity and an innovation in East High School. Because of the awe-inspired taciturnity of his fellow classmates on viewing him, Grunk ascertained that he was considered an enigmatical, recondite genius. Worshipful yearlings perambulated in his pedal vestiges in their eagerness to emulate the Great Grunk, even in gait; and once a Freshman was so dazed by his proximity to the prodigy that he was seized with wondrous vertigo, and in his febrility, mispronounced Grunk's name by changing the first letter. Terrified, the miscreant with physiognomy infantiley foolish, absconded and never dared venture more into confabulation with Grunk.

Joe Grunk was renowned as a male of myriad moods. Phlegmatic, oft supercilious in the classroom, Grunk disdained the lowly lucubration of his classmates and scorned to answer the impudent queries of his tactless pedagogues. His cerebral power was best expressed in silence. Proficient in calisthenics, Grunk was unanimously elected honorary president of the Yawner's Society, an honor accorded for the first time in the annals of East High. In convivial congregations he assiduously devoted himself to exuberant—uh, whatever was being done.

It was a tremendous calamity, therefore, when the heartless principal, who must have been seized by a fit of base jealousy, expelled the illustrious Grunk from school.

SEMITES

Through dark and turbulent ages has come to us an invaluable code of laws, the gift of the ancient Hebrews. Not unlike our present-day instructors were these people, teachers of ethics and fine morals.

LATINS

Roman Senators, symbolizing the power of Seniors, recall to us the far-reaching effects of Roman civilization—their books, read through centuries; their treatises on law, used even now; their architectural accomplishments; and prowess in war.

RUSSIANS

Forced from their homes by severe class distinctions and tyranny of overpowering Czars and Cossacks, Russian immigrants have found America a friendly haven. To the Melting Pot they bring the fame of their literary abilities and a desire for a better mode of living.

ANGLO SAXONS

England! What numberless thoughts of great gifts to humanity this name conjures up—our own familiar tongue, masterpieces of literature, the settlers of our own land, countless inventions to further civilization. From the time when peddlers followed the fairs to the era of modern business, England has always been a center of commerce.

TEUTONS

When life was stagnating and advance stunted, monks preserved civilization by undertaking the tedious task of copying manuscript. This relieved the situation but temporarily, however, because of the crude nature of their implements. Finally the creation of the printing press by John Guttenberg, resulted in the birth of a world of readers, stimulated and encouraged to advance education.

ROMANCE PEOPLES

From France, during four centuries a center of fine arts, have come great artists, notably composers of music—Chopin and Gounod. Italy, too, has always given the world men of great genius; for example, Leonardo DaVinci. Haven't you read Cervantes' Don Quixote, the best that was ever written by Spaniards?

GREEKS

A wonderful heritage has been given us by the ancient Greeks—all the accumulated culture of old Athens. They were the inventors of drama. Today, surrounded with evidences of Grecian art and civilization, we are scarcely able to appreciate fully the wealth and richness of their legacy.

SCANDINAVIANS

Rigorous and severe climatic conditions have toughened the hardy Norsemen, lovers of the sea and followers of the American frontier, making him capable, dependable, and undaunted. These people and their descendants have ever made manifest their joy in sports and their delight in strength.

SCOTCH

Although the Scotchmen have borne the brunt of many jokes about their thriftiness, this quality helped them greatly when they roved about the wilderness, like old Daniel Boone,—settlers in our land. To refresh themselves from the toil of the business world—such as securing ads—the Scotchman originated the game of golf, a sport much in favor in this country.

A PURPOSE AND A PLEDGE TO YOUTH

IF IN merchandising there is one mission which could be defined as the greatest of them all, we would define that as a purpose and a pledge to give to the youth of our community the best that a Big Store can obtain from world-reaching markets.

DU BOIS-PRINTED BOOK

Wins All-American Contest as Best College Annual

THE Lucky Bag is the Annual of the Regiment of Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. The June 1928 book won the All-American contest sponsored by The Scholastic Editor as the best College Annual of the year. The vote of the following committee was unanimous:

MR. LEWIS M. PRYOR of The Pryor Press
MR. JOHN P. PAULSON of College Humor
MR. EDWARD G. JOHNSON of J. M. Bundscho, Inc.

We quote from their letters:

"The very high quality of the Lucky Bag was achieved by having craftsmen of real ability to do the work. We, at the Pryor Press, have been very close to the school field for many years through our school poster service. From time to time we have noticed many annuals and often we have gritted our teeth at the poor printing sometimes displayed. The color work, composition, make ready—and everything else concerning the printing of the Lucky Bag—left little to be desired. Please accept the compliments of this company for your very good work."—LEWIS M. PRYOR.

"The 1928 Lucky Bag which won the prize as the best College Annual in America, won that prize because it was most excellently printed and planned. Our art director, Mr. Tom Burroughs and myself, went over some of these Annuals and in our estimation the Lucky Bag was the best all around Annual we had seen printed for some years. The cover was attractive, the printing was well done, and there was an excellent use of color—just the right amount. In our estimation it was a perfect engraving and printing job. You certainly ought to be congratulated for printing this Annual and also I notice that you have printed other Lucky Bags which have won prizes."—JOHN P. PAULSON.

"There never was any doubt in mind as to the position of the Lucky Bag. It was far superior in most every manner to the other books submitted. In fact, it was a treat to go through it, and note its genuine thought and careful workmanship. It stuck out against the field so that it was not a difficult pick."—EDWARD G. JOHNSON.

The DuBois Press shares this honor with the Bureau of Engraving of Minneapolis which designed and engraved the Lucky Bag and the J. F. Tapley Company of Long Island City, the binders.

In fairness to all concerned The DuBois Press feels that Midshipman Ralph K. James, the Editor, should have major recognition. His masterful work in heading up a versatile staff was outstanding. He practically created the ideas around which the book was designed and built.
